8-voice horn choir, 3 brass quintets, & organ

disposition of resources:

 or  = pause ad libitum or as indicated  = 60 unless otherwise indicated = wait for sound of previous group to partially die away before beginning to play

The organ part is legato unless otherwise indicated material

In modo canonico = as a classical canon, each player beginning the material at a point corresponding to his Roman numeral, usually one or two beats apart. Boxed material is to be repeated until new material is encountered or a drop-out cue (circle) is encountered. 1° indicates that players continue to play previous material until, one at a time beginning with the first player, they move to the new canon. Considerable overlapping of material should result. ▽

Cues apply only to the material toward which an arrowhead is directed.

There is no vertical coincidence of parts in the score except where synchronization is indicated; synchronization is generally within groups but not between groups.

5X = play 5 times, then move to the next figure or drop out, as indicated.

Each group has its own conductor; in the case of the Quintets, this may be one of the players. Stopwatches needed for each conductor and the organist.

 Doppler Rotation: Trumpets and trombones in the center aisle. Each player pivots his entire body ^{once} rapidly in a complete 360° circle, pointing the bell of the instrument straight out, and playing the single pitch indicated only while in motion. The pivot will take about 1". The player then remains silent for the remainder of the period indicated for repetitions, e.g. : every 5" = 1" to play, 4" to wait, then repeat. Repetitions must be exactly periodic but ^{periods} are different for each player; don't be influenced by others.
